Today's Presentation

- Origin of CSA
- Early years of operation
- Changes since Inception
- Assessment of extent to which CSA has fulfilled its original goals and principles
  - Results of Recent Stakeholder Survey
  - Discussion of Current Strengths and Need for Improvement

Why Look to the Past?

Will Examine Four Critical Themes

- Why CSA was able to be created at that time.
- Factors and forces that facilitated establishment of this.

Context Matters

- Virginia's long paradoxical history of conservatism and innovation.
- DPB residential placement study.
- First Lady Baliles interest in children.
- Virginia's first Black governor.
- Bi-partisan collaboration.

Faithfully Focusing on Principles/Values

- ➔ Recent introduction of System of Care model (Stroul and Friedman).
- ➔ Skillful guidance of state and local officials to enable stakeholders to put aside vested interests/organizational and focus on welfare of vulnerable children/families.

Persistence Pays Off

- Seven Years of Preliminary Work
  - Task forces
  - Pilot projects
  - Research on other systems of care
- Governor's Council on Community Services for Youth and Families

Balance is Required

- Appropriate attention to integrity and survival of participating organizations.
- Deal with tensions constructively.
- Considerable negotiation and compromise.
  - Local-State authority/roles.
  - Fiscal vs service goals.
  - Agency autonomy/convenience vs complexity of collaboration.
  - Regulation/accountability vs flexibility and unique local structure/culture.

What is CSA?

- Array of services.
- Funding mechanism.
- Local and state governance and management structure.

- Most important – CSA is a structure and process for stakeholders to plan services, resolve conflicts, and address challenges that impact this unique system of care.

Howard Cullum's Bold Directive

Incremental Policymaking

- The original legislation remains fundamentally intact today.
- Throughout its “evolution” the legislation has promoted improvements to the system.
- Inherent flexibility has allowed for both programmatic and legislative modifications to meet unanticipated demands and changing conditions.
- The CSA altered the funding structure and service delivery model by setting forth in policy a new way of planning, coordinating, funding and delivering services.
- Virginia’s state and local agencies and communities, fundamentally redesigned the system of care for at-risk children.

Looking to the Future . . .

- CSA has achieved positive results, continued to receive political support, and developed over time to respond to changing demands and conditions.
- CSAA' implementation has not been without challenges.
- CSA's path forward might be somewhat uncertain and continue to change, however what is certain is that it's on a course to continue.
- You are a part of that!

Taking Stock of 30 Years of CSA . . .

Key Stakeholders Input

- Your reflections on how well the CSA system of care has achieved its mission . . .
- To what extent has CSA achieved its original goals and remained consistent with the values and principles it embraced?
- What has helped in successfully implementing this ambitious statewide undertaking locally and at the state level?
- What are the obstacles and challenges faced that have impeded progress?
- What can be done to address these concerns and improve the ability to provide comprehensive, coordinated care for vulnerable children and families?

32

- Lack of funding/resources.

Positive Directions & Strengths

- There is a regular Coordinator Academy that is well funded, consistent and offers fundamentals.
- OCS has CQI data now that is well done and gives localities feedback on their performance.
- The auditors are fair and focus on training/improvement. It's still hard because of the breadth of policy and requirements.
- OCS is offering monthly office hours for training and questions.
- Other state agencies may be driving some of the problems and poor alignment; it's not all OCS.
- The SLAT and Coordinators groups are more effective now.
