Needs of Families & Adoptees Post-18

Begin With The End In Mind:
Something to think about...

When you stand and share your story in an empowering way, your story will heal you and your story will heal somebody else.

What We Know

Principles identified by the National Consortium for Post Legal Adoption Services in Adoption Support and Preservation Services: A Continuing Public Interest:

1. Families created by adoption are different from families created by birth.
2. Adoption is a lifelong experience.
3. Adoption is beneficial to parent, child, and society.
4. Society is responsible for providing support and preservation services to the adoptive family.
Adult Outcomes for Traumatized Children

1 in 5 will be homeless by age 18

Only ½ will be employed by age 24

<3% will obtain a college degree

71% of females will be pregnant by age 21

¼ WILL HAVE PTSD

What is Attachment?

Attachment is a deep and enduring emotional bond that connects one person to another across time and space (Ainsworth, 1973; Bowlby, 1969)
How do you get there?

Parenting which results in a secure attachment

Attachment Parenting

(Intentionally creating a mutual, deep active and real emotional connection)
“Whether adopted from birth or later in life, all adopted children have experienced some degree of trauma.”

-Bryan Post
What is trauma?

Trauma is any stressful event which is prolonged, overwhelming, or unpredictable.

-Bryan Post
Traumatic event:

• Scary, dangerous, or violent event that involves an immediate threat to the life or physical welfare of ourselves or a loved one

• Usually cause extreme feelings of fear and helplessness

• Overwhelm an individual’s capacity to cope

  Approximately 26% of children in the U.S. will witness or experience a traumatic event before age 4; over half report experiencing a traumatic event by age 16.

  Many children have experienced multiple traumas, and for too many children trauma is a chronic part of their lives.
Situations that can be traumatic

It’s not over just because “it” is over…
Child Traumatic Stress

- Reactions that persist and affect a child’s life after a traumatic event has ended

- Reactions may include:
  - Prolonged periods of being upset, depressed, anxious
  - Changes in behavior, eating, or sleeping habits
  - Developmental regression (toilet training, speech)
  - New somatic complaints (aches, pains)
  - Difficulties in school
  - Problems relating to others, reluctance to participate in social activities
  - Drug or alcohol abuse, risky behaviors, or unhealthy sexual behavior (older children)
ONE TRAUMATIC EVENT (ACUTE):

9% - PTSD or acute stress disorder

39% - criteria met for ADHD

38% - criteria met for mood disorders

26% - criteria met for ODD
“Children exposed to complex trauma often experience lifelong problems that place them at risk for additional trauma exposure and cumulative impairment (eg, psychiatric and addictive disorders; Chronic mental illness; legal, vocational, and family problems). These problems may extend from childhood through adolescence, and into adulthood.”

(Cook et al, 5/2005)

7 CORE ISSUES OF ADOPTION

• Loss
• Rejection
• Guilt and shame
• Grief
• Identity
• Intimacy
• Mastery/control

DON'T JUDGE
MY STORY BY THE CHAPTER
YOU WALKED IN ON.
“MY child, YOUR family
Severing ties:

- TPR: legal process
- Adoption: geographic change
- Shared History & Experiences: emotional process

“When you inherit a broken family, you can’t throw it away and get a new one. What you can do is find people and situations that provide for you what your family cannot.”

— Ilyana Vanyant
“If a mother and father can love more than one child then why is it so hard to understand that a child can love more than one mother and father?”
Stage 5: Identity V Confusion
Adolescence
- focus on exploring independence
- develop a sense of self
- personal exploration must be encouraged
- success will result in a strong sense of self and feeling of independence and control
- failure with result in unsure beliefs and desire and insecure/confused feelings in the future

Stage 6: Intimacy V Isolation
Early adulthood
- develop close, committed relationships in order to develop secure and committed relationship in the future
- strong sense of personal identity is needed
- less committed relationships will result in emotional isolation, depression, and loneliness

“Making you my family MAKES you my family”
Due to these multiple losses for both adoptees and adoptive parents, there may also have been difficulties in early bonding and attachment. For children adopted at older ages, multiple disruptions in attachment and/or abuse may interfere with relationships in the new family (Fahlberg 1979 a, b).
There are some people who could hear you speak a thousand words and still not understand you. And there are others who will understand without you even speaking a word.
We're not looking for someone to complete us. We're looking for someone to accept us with all the pieces that we're missing.

“My healing home will HEAL you”

“Parenting of a Traumatized Child Ends at 18”
1. Bonding still matters:
   - joint activities
   - traditions
   - contact, even upon rejection

2. The magic of unconditional love:
   (because we understand the stumbling blocks)

3. Passing the torch:
   - community service providers for safety and support

4. BUT remember you’re still needed:
   physical needs safety net, pieces of their story

5. Do what’s best, not what’s easy
   - setting limits
   - encouraging independence vs. dependence
6. Meet their needs and not your own
   - they need outside relationships, hobbies, interests

7. Remember: the past matters, and it always will

8. Let go of YOUR dream so they can live THEIRS

9. You matter!

10. There is an amazing adult in there with an amazing story to share.
